

Flight training checklist

Questions you may wish to consider asking your prospective flight training school include:

- What training do I need to do to become a pilot?
- How much does it cost to complete my training?
- How long will it take to complete my training?
- Can I learn to fly on a part time basis?
- What aircraft do you use in your training programs?
- How are your aircraft maintained?
- When can I start training with you?
- Is there an entry test or an interview process?
- How do I apply for one of your programs?
- Do you offer trial flights?
- What other requirements do I need to meet such as English levels?
- How important is flight training to the organisation? For instance, is it the core business?
- How long has the flight school been in business?
- What about the school's instructional staff, its enrolment numbers, and credentials? Do they have a Chief Flying Instructor?
- What are the school's classrooms like?
- What services are available at the airport (instrument approaches and control towers)?
- What is the school's reputation on flight regulations and safety policies?
- What are the insurance requirements of the school, and how do its liability and collision policies work?
- Does your school offer financing options for my training fees?
